

Connecting the Dots

Emergency Command IP Voice

When an emergency occurs, first responders from various agencies must be able to talk to each other within a split-second. Quintron's innovative VoIP system provides this capability and offers secure interoperability between disparate radio systems, phones of all types and other external audio sources. Whether the need is for a government emergency response center or corporate security operations, Quintron's VoIP provides a single-point solution for rapid response to any situation.

Call us today to learn how our VoIP technology can help you better connect the dots.

QUINTRON[®]

805.928.4343 www.quintron.com